We welcome bringing a friend - please RSVP on their behalf with full details.

China Matters, in partnership with the University of Sydney Business School, will bring together two young professionals and two special guests, Professor Hans Hendrichske and Mrs Winnie Eley, to debate this challenge facing the Australia-China relationship from the perspective of business and government. This debate will be moderated by Ms Primrose Riordan from The Australian.

This event is targeted at young professionals aged 35 and under (not necessarily working in the Australia-China space, but whom hold an interest in the topic). If you know any other young professionals who may be interested, do provide us with their email address as this event is invite-only.

China Matters supporter circle members will be joining us as observers, including during the networking drinks component of the night. We hope to see you there!
